Introduction

Hollywood is where the ideals of our culture come to fruition. You can have it all—beauty, wealth, affection, love and/or jealousy from others. It's also a place of emotional pain as a result of expectations not being met. It's this yin and yang that permeates Hollywood.

It's this force that draws in people from all over the world. However, it's like an intoxicant. Soon, it's energy dissipates from your body and you feel tired, and disillusioned. It's a "LA LA LAND", a City of Dreams, Pandora's Box and Alice's Rabbit Hole all-in-one.

A photographer for over twenty years, Dennis R. Ford images has been published in CameraArts Magazine and several Black & White Magazine Issues. His work can be seen on several digital platforms, such as ndmagazine and the Photo Review website. Dennis's photographic style repeatedly involves geometric forms, light and shadow & straight lines. He attributes this to a photography movement called minimalism.
